

COMMISSIONED LIGHTING SCULPTURES

The image is a composite of two scenes. The background scene is a workshop or atelier, dimly lit, with a large, ornate chandelier made of many small, glowing, flower-like metal pieces hanging from the ceiling. In the foreground, a close-up of a metal sculpture of a flower is shown, with its petals reflecting a vibrant blue and purple light. The overall aesthetic is industrial yet artistic.

As all lighting is handmade, our atelier can offer endless possibilities to customise. Some of the biggest palaces in the whole world are lit by us, yet also some of the most intimate rooms in private residences.

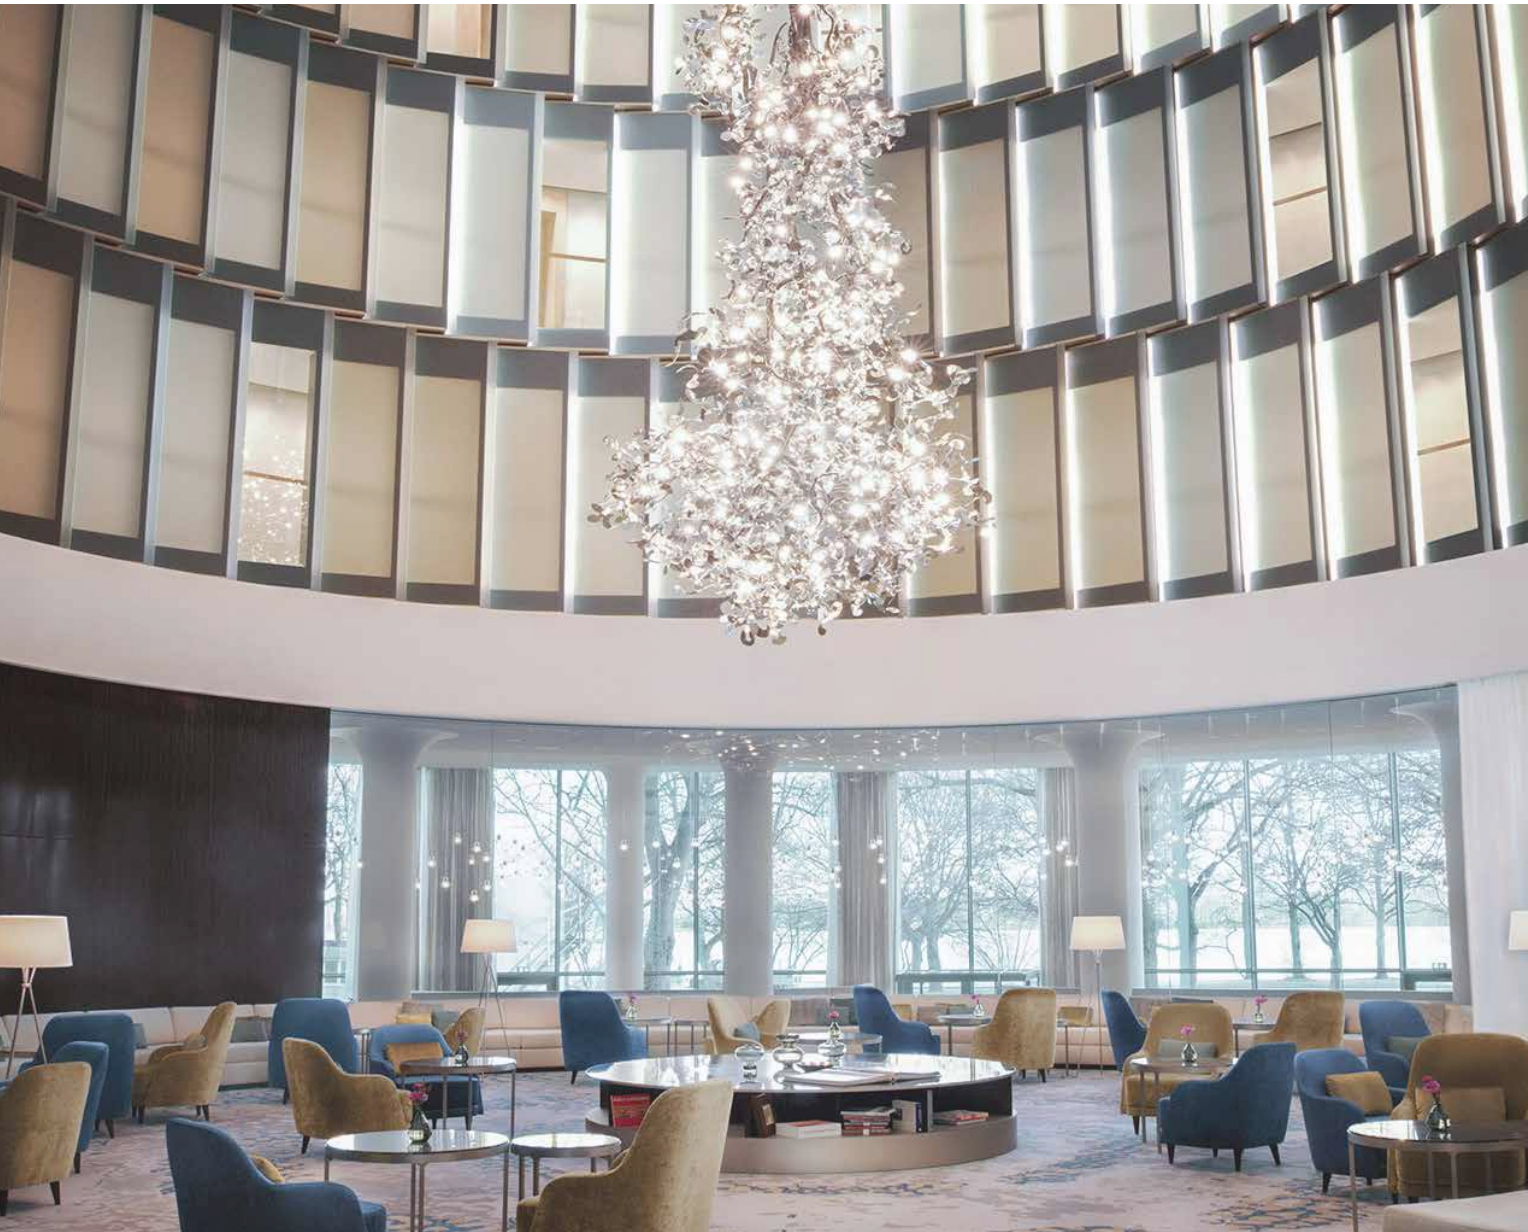

“My first memories are related to forms and shapes. As a child I was mesmerized by seeing my hands able to create something with paper and pencil, as if I could recreate the world with those simple elements in my hand.”

THE BRAND VAN EGMOND ATELIER

An aerial photograph of the Naarden Fortress in the Netherlands during the 'blue hour'. The star-shaped fortification is illuminated with warm lights, contrasting with the cool blue tones of the twilight sky and the surrounding water-filled moats. The town of Naarden is visible in the background, with its church spire prominent. The foreground shows the dark, silhouetted trees of the surrounding landscape.
